Dedication of Legion women's new standard

Mrs. M. Carr with the new standard, and the escort, Mrs. M. Waller and Miss R. Ridley.

NEW standard of Nutley, Fairwarp, and Maresfield British Legion women's section was dedicated at Maresfield Parish Church on Sunday by the Rector, the Rev. P. S. Harbald, at a service which he conducted, assisted by the Vicar of Nutley, the Rev. O. E. Frack. Representatives of Legion branches in the Mid-Sussex group attended.

The service was preceded by a Legion parade from Parklands, Maresfield, to the church, in which 3 standards were carried. The local women's section's old standard was carried by Dalkoway who received it when it was dedicated at Nutley 17 years ago. During a laying-up ceremony in the church it was presented to the Rev. Mrs. A. Harvey (women's section president). Mrs. M. Carr presented the new standard which was presented for dedication by Mrs. D. Campbell (chairman).

Following the service there was a further parade through Maresfield Park with the new standard at its head.

Mrs CAMPBELL GAINS THE LEGION'S HIGHEST AWARD

THE Royal British Legion's highest award, the Gold Badge, has been gained by Mrs. A. D. P. Campbell, who has retired after 37 years as chairman of Nutley, Maresfield and Fairwarp Women's Section.

Mrs Campbell joined in September, 1947, and became chairman in the following month, but although her long term of office ended at the annual meeting at Nutley on Tuesday, she immediately began another — for she was elected president.

OTHER AWARDS

The badge was presented to her by Mrs Elizabeth Dacre, the county president, who told her it was "golden service for a quarter of a century and over".

"It comes with the affection and esteem of your branch," said Mrs Dacre.

Members of the men's branch were invited to attend the presentation ceremony.

Mrs Campbell's successor as chairman is Mrs Phyllis Biber. Other officers elected were Mrs M. Carr (vice-chairman), Mrs J. H.
